

N. Textbooks and Materials to be Purchased by Students (Use Bibliographic Form):

(Prentice-Hall, 1991).

O. Course Objectives; P. Course Content; Q. Method of Instruction; R. Course Evaluation

Complete Form with Entries Under the Following Headings:

O. COURSE OBJECTIVES

General

The main purposes of the course are:

- 1. to introduce students to the basics of ethical theory; to encourage students to develop an understanding of the moral controversies which arise in business and industry; to encourage students to develop their own reasoning about the moral controversies.

Specific

Students will

- 1. a systematic understanding of the ethical theories and concepts covered in the course;
- 2. an understanding of the moral controversies covered in the course;
- 3. the ability to accept and defend their own reasoning about the moral controversies;
- 4. the ability to accept and defend their own reasoning about the moral controversies;
- 5. the ability to develop their own reasoning about the moral controversies.

END

P. COURSE CONTENT

Instruction In this course will cover the following five areas:

- 1. The nature of ethics-- including the relation between ethics & morality, and morality & law; A simple introduction to the basic types of ethical theories: such as, consequentialism (e.g., utilitarianism, egoism, etc.) and deontological theories (e.g., Kantianism, rule ethics, etc.).

3

Subject and Course Number

(P. Course Content Continued)

